What is TTT?

TTT is a national organization of women who donate their time, talent and treasures to send girls to camp – and more! Chapters across the United States focus on one project: to provide a local, educational camping experience for girls in their community who might not otherwise have the opportunity. The National T.T.T. Society is a non-profit, philanthropic organization of women who have been in operation since 1911.

What is the TTT program like?

Camp Wyoming is committed to running an organized, safe, educational, and fun TTT program. TTT (pronounced Tri-T) is a non-religious camp for girls in 4th grade who otherwise would not have the opportunity to attend camp. Counselors work in a variety of large group and small group settings. Small groups engage in activities like group games, swimming, archery, arts & crafts, tie dye, creek stomping and kayaking. Large group activities include campfires, evening programs, and the carnival. Counselors lead and supervise all camp activities.
